

Cook County Multi-Jurisdictional All Hazards Mitigation Plan Public Meetings

It is not a matter of IF we will face a natural disaster, but WHEN.

Are We Ready?

All residents of Cook County are invited to attend an upcoming meeting to learn about a recent study on Cook County’s vulnerability to natural hazards. This study’s findings will help local governments plan projects to reduce the risk from hazards before they happen and to help recover more quickly afterwards.

Do You Know the Risks to Your Home?

Come to one of the meetings to find out!

Learn about the natural hazards that we face in Cook County and how vulnerable your own home may be. Computer workstations set up at the meetings will show you which natural hazards have the potential to affect your property.
